

I most strongly object to further weakening of the rules on media ownership. This is not in the interest of the American people. The airwaves belong to all of us---not just the big corporations trying to make the most money possible. Instead of weakening the rules on media ownership--you should be making them stronger. Charles Cramer